THE TVC AUDITION WORKSHOP FOR TEENS

WHAT IS THE TVC AUDITION WORKSHOP FOR TEENS?

The TVC Audition Workshop is for teens who are interested in acting for camera, want to learn how to achieve a strong and memorable audition and, most importantly, have fun! We provide an interactive fun environment for teens of any level to experiment with acting and learn fundamental auditioning techniques. During the workshop each teen will simulate an audition for a national television commercial and receive direct feedback on his/her performance by the casting director conducting the workshop.

Each participant will be given the opportunity to act in front of the camera and behind the camera thus taking on the roles of actor, casting director, director, producer, ad agency producer and client. They will get to live out the process of a TVC audition from start to finish and process it from every possible angle. This will give each teen a better understanding of the process of auditioning and what each person's role in the process is.

By giving teen actors a comprehensive understanding of the auditioning process and allowing them freedom of expression in a supportive environment the workshop helps to build confidence, self-esteem and opens them to a broader experience in acting and life in general. The following list provides examples of areas that will be covered in the workshop:

- Understand the fundamental auditioning skills, thus building confidence and competency when auditioning.
- Learn how to get a call-back and land the role.
- Learn the art of non-acting, a secret for success.
- Understand the importance of time, character preparation, scene development and building respect
- Understand the importance of taking risks.
- Learn what the magic bag is and what to do with it
- Increase motivation.
- Understand who those people are behind the camera & what their expectations are.
- Learn techniques that help take away the daunting jitters.
